Security.Improved

Uniquely, with full-time employed expert auditors, NSI as an independent, not-for-profit Certification Body, provides specialist certification services to the Fire and Security industries, sets the highest standards and operates the most robust audit regimes.

NSI's principal schemes are accredited by the United Kingdom Accreditation Service (UKAS).

NSI has been protecting end user interests in this way for over forty years. Large and small alike; Companies maintaining Gold approval with NSI rank among the most professional and trustworthy businesses in the security industry, and ensuring that their representatives visiting and/or stationed at end user are both highly competent and security vetted.

NSI Systems Silver Regional Directory

The NSI Systems Silver Regional list is divided up into police force areas. Within a given police force area, the list shows the names (with brief contact details) of:

- i) those installers having an office situated within the geographical boundary of the particular police force area, plus
- ii) those other installers who have declared to NSI that:
 - a) they install within the particular police force area, and
 - b) they comply with the local police policy, and
 - c) they have made application to the local police under the police Electronic Security Systems Policy.

NOTE 1: Police acceptance

Listing of an installer in the NSI Systems Silver Directory must not be relied upon as guaranteeing that the installer has been or is currently acceptable to the local police for the transmission of security system messages.

NOTE 2: Order of listing

Within each police force area, the installers are sorted first by postal town, then by 'outward' postcode (ie: the first half of the postcode) and lastly alphabetically by name of company. This enables installers within a particular town (or part of a town) to be easily identified.

NOTE 3: Mode of use

The Association of Chief Police Officers of England, Wales, and Northern Ireland recommends to members of the public who are prospective customers of an electronic security system installer that they should ask the company representative to provide them with a list of police rules for occupiers of premises with electronic security systems, and also with written confirmation that the electronic security system and the company are currently acceptable to the local police for the transmission of security system messages from new installations.

NSI suggests that customers in Scotland, Channel Islands and the Isle of Man requiring a police-calling electronic security system should also check with the installer to ensure that the company is acceptable to the local police for the transmission of security system messages from new installations.

Accuracy of Information

Whilst NSI has tried to ensure the accuracy of this publication, it cannot accept responsibility for any errors, omissions, misstatements, or mistakes. Any Approved Company or other recipient of this publication who becomes aware of any such matters is requested to notify NSI in writing or email at nsi@nsi.org.uk.
